INTRODUCTION

Language is one of the most important things in communication and it is used as the tool of communication by all the people around this world. Human thought is not possible without language because through language we can understand what is in the brain of others. Human beings can take interaction to each other and they make communication to live in society. So language is a perfect tool of communication.

English is one of the language. The role of English as an international language in Indonesia can not be ignored. This can be seen from the reality that English is offered in every level of education in Indonesia. As in curriculum-based on government’s rule in basic competence that done hardly by the school whether it is state or private school, which aim to be competitive in facing the new era based on link and match. As we know that education is measure in welfare state. Therefore, to improve education should be use communicative competence as the best way for the teacher in achieving goal instruction.

One of the best-known models of language teaching ability is known as “Communicative Competence”. This model was developed to account for the kinds of knowledge people need in order to use language in meaningful classroom interaction. The four components of communicative competence that this framework identifies are “grammatical competence, discourse competence, sociolinguistic competence and strategic competence”. The remainder of this section elaborates on the nature of each of these components with examples from language learning and teaching. Together these four components suggest a model of communicative competence as a basic for curriculum design and classroom practice.

Savignon (1983: 7) says once communicative competence appeared to have become synonymous with progressive, innovative teaching, everyone wanted to use term to describe what he or she was doing everyone. That is except those who saw in it a disregard for grammar. An “anything-goes-as-long-as-you-get-your-meaning-across” approach to second language teaching and also states that communicative competence into the language teaching literature there been numerous interpretations of its meaning (Savignon, 1983: 29).

SMP Swasta Karya Simantin is one of private elementary school which is located in Panei subdistrict, Simalungun Regency. The students study English in the classroom, there are four skills that should be achieved in study English namely Speaking, Listening, Writing and Reading. There are many activities in the school but communicative competence in teaching English is lack. Many mistakes and problems happen because their English teaching is not enough.

Here, the teacher should have communicative competence while teaching English for the students because the teacher must encourage the students to communicate. The English teacher seldom uses English when they teach in front of the class. It is so for the teacher have communicative competence in speaking English, that must be able to shows the expression of face and the mood of dialogue content. In this case, teacher must ensure that they are given simple practice at all level in expressing themselves and situation as close to spontaneous as possible.

To enable students to speak well, the teacher also should consider teaching structure, technique of teaching, good style to the students and the teacher also have to be able create the good condition to learn. When she/he is teaching in the classroom, the teacher does not only teach the students but also motivate them.

To do this research, the writers formulate the title of this project with “A Study on Teacher’s Communicative Competence in Teaching English for the Grade VIII students of SMP Swasta Karya Simantin.” It means that the writer wants to know the achieving goal instruction by having communicative competence while teaching English with focused on teaching speaking. A teacher of English must be able to acknowledge the norms that regulate communication within the classroom, as well as the rules that control participation in the class activities and understand the socio-cultural context in which the classroom is placed. However to make the interaction to be successful, it may be necessary for the teacher to have the communicative competence to reach the educational goal in classroom activities. So in this thesis the writer will concern with communicative competence itself.

As has been stated above, this research will talk about the teacher's communicative competence while teaching activities that done in the classroom. So, to answer the problem of the research, the writer formulate the research problem with the following question “does the English teacher who teaches in the class of Grade VIII SMP Swasta Karya Simantin has Communicative Competence in teaching English and influence the students achievement in teaching learning process?” Based on the problem of the study, which has formulated above, the writer wants to make the purpose of the study as follows to find out the communicative competence the teacher has in teaching speaking English the Grade VIII students of SMP Swasta Karya Simantin.

RESEARCH METHODOLOGY

In doing this research, the writer needs 3 months from designing the research proposal up to finishing the result. The data for the research was taken on Monday to Tuesday, November 10-11 2014. It was about the English teaching process given by Sir. Purba at Grade VIII class of SMP Swasta Karya Simantin.

This study is qualitative research. The design of qualitative refers to the methodology that focuses on the analyses process. The term of the process, which is used by the writer, deals with the work that is done by the writer on the direct investigations. Direct investigations will be started from the collecting data up to this analysis. The design of qualitative also deals with the interpretation. And also this study is descriptive qualitative because it finds the problem at the present time.

The subject of the study on this research is English Teacher at SMP Swasta Karya Simantin. The level of the students that teacher tries to investigate is the Grade VIII students. The object of this study on this research will be the communicative competence including the teacher and the grade VIII students of SMP Swasta Karya Simantin.

The technique, which is used by the writer on this paper, will be an observation, interview and recording the conversation happened in real situation in classroom activities at the grade VIII of SMP Swasta Karya Simantin. The writer will make the data recording to the teacher at the teaching-learning process until she gets the full data of teacher while teaching speaking with the topic given by the writer in conversation-context. The writer will search the grammatical competence, discourse competence, sociolinguistic competence and strategic competence by recording the teaching speaking activities and also the writer will make a note while recording the data.

The writer's task is collect data to be analyzed related properly to the problem of the study. The writer will interpret data to final Communicative Competence of teacher of grade VIII of SMP Swasta Karya Simantin. The data below will be example of technique of analyzing data.

Teacher : I saw you at the market yesterday. What did you buy?
Student :You bought a new t-shirt yesterday. Remember, the past tense of buy is bought.
Student: I bought a new t-shirt, Sir.
Teacher: That’s exciting. Now, open your book page 21. There is some exercises to do and I ask you to finish the exercises.

From the conversation above it can obviously seen that the teacher trying to teach a grammatical case (grammatical competence). The teacher’s communicative competence can also be seen from very start of making the teaching process. The teacher is giving explanation about the topic first before he/she ask the students to finish exercise sometimes it is not good enough for the students and since the writer makes a study on an English subject, this methodology can be acceptable.

Generally, validity is process to know how far the instrument uses has a decent, it means the instrument has validity and believe ness of data according to the fact. The validity in qualitative study is different with validity in quantitative study. In quantitative study, the validity and believe ness are measured by numbers. In qualitative, it confirms how far instruments has the requirements of the validity and believe ness. It can be achieved by triangulation.

Triangulation in qualitative study is indicated to look for the aspect of theory, methodology and data. Aspect theory is studied according to its relation with drawn based on the exit theory. Aspect of methodology concerns with the technique and procedure. It is hoped to get the needed data. Aspect of data concerns with the needed and believe ness of data. All the aspects are bounded each other functionally, it means qualitative, a validity process can use explanation in a set of technique and procedure.

The technique and procedure indicate to a certain methodology and a set of instrument that is prepared by triangulation and functionally in qualitative research. To know the validity of this research, the writer will use triangulation theory; that is firstly recording the data, secondly checking the data, and lastly find the data by library theory. So there must be the presence of the researcher, the subject of the research and reference. The theory will show the validity of the data collect by the researcher.

In this research, the writer interprets the communicative competence of English teacher at Grade VIII of SMP Swasta Karya Simantin. As the theory of communicative competence as been overtly discussed on the previous chapter. Savignon (1983: 29) stated that communicative competence into the language teaching literature there been numerous interpretations of its meaning. So, the analysis of the data on this research basically find out the communicative competence owned by English teacher at Grade VIII of SMP Swasta Karya Simantin. The communicative competence is a dynamic rather than a static concept. It depends on the negotiation of meaning between two or more persons who share to some degree the symbolic system. In this sense, then, communicative competence can be said an interpersonal rather than an interpersonal trait.

In achieving classroom communicative competence, teacher must be able to acknowledge the norms that regulate communication within the classroom, as well as the rules that control participation in the class activities, and understand the socio-cultural context in which the classroom is placed. Recognizing these rules is going to allow teacher design classroom activities, and the objectives of the language use, as well as organize students “participation” in these activities. Creating activities that will allow students to communicate with each other can be an effective way to foster communicative competence in the second language. Thus, classroom communicative competence is necessary in order for second language students to participate in and learn within the classroom setting.

After doing the data analysis of this thesis, it can be said that the symbols of communicative competence that had by the teacher applies for the students are categorized into written and spoken symbols. Spoken symbol is meant as teacher tries to explain the lesson to the students while written means as teacher tries to write down what he or she tries to explain to the students.

The target of the language that English teacher at Grade VIII of SMP Swasta Karya Simantin is to conduct the students in communicating especially in speaking English. The teacher are demanded to be competent both oral and written while teaching that language to the students. Being competent here that the teacher must be able to communicate English language as easy as possible so the students will be having an easy understanding of grabbing that language.

During the writer’s investigations in the classroom, communicative competence can only be achieved and acknowledged through students’ participation in classroom activities; in other words, the language must be used in order to gain competence, because the use of language in the classroom is going to supply the information that is to be learned, and provide opportunities for students to receive the information, process it, and practice language production.

Fifth, the development of the concept of communicative competence as its related to language teaching can be traced into sources, one theoretical and the other practical. Sixth, communicative competence that the teacher has at grade VIII of SMP Swasta Karya Simantin depends on the ability to apply the lesson on the teaching process. Seventh, communicative competence applies to both written and spoken language as well as too many other symbolic systems.

Eight, communicative competence takes places in an infinite variety of situations and success in a particular role depends on one’s understandings of the context and prior experience of similar kind.
